Attention

WordPress enregistre les URL dans sa base de données. Pour mettre un site en ligne, il faut remplacer les URL locales (localhost/...) par les URL publiques (www.monsite.fr) !

The screenshot shows the WP Migrate DB plugin interface. The top navigation bar includes a WordPress logo, a home icon, the site URL 'bradt.ca', a comment count '0', a '+ New' button, a 'Purge Cache' button, and a 'SearchWP' button. The main interface has a sidebar with various icons, including a gear for settings, which is currently selected. The main content area is titled 'Migrate DB' and has tabs for 'Migrate', 'Settings', 'Addons', and 'Help'. The 'Migrate' tab is active, showing a 'Saved Profiles' section with a 'New Profile' link. Below this are two checked options: 'Save as file to your computer' and 'Compress file with gzip'. The 'Find' and 'Replace' section contains two rows of text inputs. The first row shows 'Find' as '//dev.bradtd.ca' and 'Replace' as '//bradt.ca'. The second row shows 'Find' as '/sites/bradt.ca/public_html' and 'Replace' as '/sites/bradt.ca/public_html'. An 'Add Row' button is located below the first row. The 'Advanced Options' section is expanded, showing several checked options: 'Replace GUIDs', 'Exclude transients (temporary cached data)', and 'Compatible with older versions of MySQL (pre-5.5)'. There are also unchecked options for 'Exclude spam comments' and 'Exclude post revisions'. At the bottom, there is an unchecked 'Save Migration Profile' option with a description: 'Save the above settings for the next time you do a similar migration'. An 'Export' button is located at the bottom right of the main content area.
